

october newsletter

news headlines

› How much do you contribute to world water shortages?

Understand the implications of your supply chain's water footprint and how much of a risk this might be to your business in the future.

For further information click here »

› Transparency could cut energy prices at a stroke

How much of your energy bill is going to a broker? Find out more about how energy brokers are earning commissions of tens of millions of pounds per year.

More information »

› Isle of plenty - Denmark leading the way in reducing CO2 emissions

Learn more about how one Danish island has cut its carbon footprint by a staggering 140% in just eleven years.

Read more »

› Sainsbury's strengthens links in its supply chain

Discover how the Fair Development Fund is promoting fairer trade with producers in developing countries.

Find out more »

upcoming events

Costing the Future - Parliamentary Sustainable Procurement Conference - 14 October 2008, London

Following on from the Costing the Future: Securing Value for Money through Sustainable Procurement report, this conference looks at how sustainable procurement can deliver real environmental, social and economic benefits.

More information »

Procuring the Future - Sustainable Procurement in Facilities Management - 15th October 2008, London

This director level breakfast briefing will help you understand how your organisation can gain a competitive advantage through sustainable procurement.

Book Now »

2nd annual BSI Sustainable Procurement conference - delivering improvements in strategy and process - 12th November 2008, London

Hear the latest developments on how sustainable procurement can benefit both your business and your supply chain.

Find Out More »

CPD accredited sustainable procurement training courses - 17th November in Birmingham, 3rd December in London

Practical hands on training that will enable you to discover the tools and techniques of sustainable procurement.

Find Out More »

Sourcing Sustainable Solutions - 18th November 2008, Birmingham

Increase the sustainability of your supply chain and discover innovative suppliers who can lessen your environmental impact.

Book Now »